Ox Team Bound for Fair Attracts Attention Here

Hugh S. Olsson, Warren, Pa., wanted to see the World's Fair in New York. He wanted to see the country enroute also. So, he bought three oxen, fitted a 12 foot covered wagon with supplies and rubber tires and set out. He had to drop one of the oxen enroute as three were too hard to handle so now he has two oxen. His average mileage is 15 miles per day and he expects to be in New York at the Fair by July 24th. Part of the expenses for his trip are made by selling post cards showing his outfit.

The oxen are white Holsteins weighing 2200 pounds. They eat 12 pounds of oats daily. The greatest difficulty in handling the team is to keep shoes on them. Mr. Olsson devised some rubber shoes from old motor car tires and the animals seem to stand the strain of the trip very well. He left Warren, Pa., June 1 of this year. At night he camps along the road, letting the oxen eat while they will and he sleeps either in the wagon or on the ground in fair weather.

Seniors Told Factors Necessary To Build Life at Baccalaureate

Sunday night service in high school auditorium in charge of the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon and the Methodist choir—Graduates, faculty and Board of Education members march to auditorium.

"Building a life" and the factors which go to make up a full life was the topic of a talk given to the graduates of the class of 1940 of Addison High School by the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon. The occasion was the annual baccalaureate sermon given in the high school auditorium. The program was under the direction of the Rev. Cossaboon assisted by Mrs. Harold Wilson, who arranged the musical numbers and Miss Betty Pepper, pianist.

The members of the Senior Class marched down the aisle in the auditorium followed by the members of the Board of Education and faculty. All joined in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers". Prayer was offered by the Rev. John V. Axtell who asked "encouragement for those who have ambition".

GREETINGS

The Rev. Cossaboon said in part: "I extend greetings to the members of the class of 1940, to their parents, to the teachers and to the taxpayers who made possible the achievements of this class."

"Twenty-seven years ago I gave a baccalaureate sermon in Woodhull High School before three graduates. Since that time I have often wondered what a baccalaureate is for. I know it means bachelor of arts. Education."

"You are now going to build your own life. Heretofore you have had everything done for you. You have been a part of the life of the school."

Claude Wilcox Died Thursday—Broken Neck

Claude Wilcox, 53, died Thursday night, June 20, 1940, as a result of a fall from a second story window that morning.

Mr. Wilcox was born in Addison, in a house in the year of where the Lafrank Store is now located. He attended Addison High School. His parents were the late Charles and Julia Champlain Wilcox. He engaged in painting after leaving school until the World War when he enlisted and went to France.

Upon his return he became prominent in Legion circles here and again engaged in painting.

Mr. Wilcox was well known throughout the entire village and was especially known by the nickname of "Dobbie". He was always seen in the company of his dog and he also was a great favorite with children.

He lived alone in a house he owned on upper Steuben street, a house as meticulous as well as stocked as any housekeeper would want. He took pride in his home and surroundings.

Mr. Wilcox was working on the MacDowell tenant house on the north side of Maple street last Thursday. Ford Williams and son-in-law Lewis Willis were also working about the place. They went across the street for a few minutes and when they returned they found Mr. Wilcox paralyzed on the ground. He had fallen from a 12 foot scaffold. It is not known how he fell. The Rev. John V. Axtell was called and he in turn called Dr. Stuart Bean. Mr. Wilcox was taken to Corning Hospital and died later in the day.

He leaves one sister, Mrs. Susie Smith of Corning, R. D. 2, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon with many friends in attendance, including members of Williams-Greengrass Post American Legion, of which he was a member and of the Phoenix Hose Company. The prayers were said by the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon, pastor of the Methodist Church.

A military funeral was held at the grave under the auspices of the local post and taps were blown by Clare Chart. Bearers were Dr. Amos C. Stiker, Llewellyn Robbins, Fred Sutliff, Frederick Frost and Claude Martin of Addison and Robert Margeson of Woodhull. Burial was in Addison Rural Cemetery.

One of the little known facts about Claude Wilcox was the fact that he was the possessor of a gold medal for life saving, secured for him through the efforts of the late Congressman Gillet. The deed was performed when Mr. Wilcox was a youth.

Horseheads—"Can America Keep Out of War?" was the commencement theme at the high school here.

have acquired knowledge, but someone has guided you. There is difficulty in getting an education. And it is not in acquiring an education that builds your life, but in what you do with your education after you get it.

"Your teachers have given you knowledge, but their main function was in correction and erection. If I told you all your mistakes that would resent it. We do not like to be told or shown our mistakes. That was what your teachers were for, and if they failed in that, they failed in their duty."

Do As You Are Told
"Build a life on what you are told to do. Adjust your life to everyday problems. And adjust your life to get along with others. These are vital in building a life. Life consists of thoughts, words and deeds. Ideas are not original, so we have to utilize what we find. Therefore, be careful what you fill your mind with and read only good books."

Work

"No man can do our work for us. If you succeed in building a life you must work and don't be afraid of it. And from the men you work with, your teachers, your pastor and others, character references will be asked. Your high school and college years are your making or breaking years. You will find less freedom during the discipline of school than during your undergraduate days."

"Never feel you have learned everything. The more you learn, the more you will realize the less you know. Don't let anyone tell you everything in the world is done. There is plenty for you to do."

Prayer
"You are the arbiters of your own fortunes. Remember to take God in your life. Pray. Don't be ashamed to pray. Read your Bibles, no matter what their version and then build your life upon the teachings and promises of the Bible. I hope to live 20 years to see you all successful!"

Flowers on the stage were gathered by Juniors, Anne Flynn, Esther Whitmore, Helen Horey, Keith Kizer and John O'Connor under the direction of William Lundrigan. The night's program closed with singing of "America" and benediction by the Rev. M. C. Johns of the Baptist Church.

Warren Perkins County FFA Prize Winner

Warren Perkins of the Addison High School Department of Agriculture was declared the winner of the Steuben County Future Farmer speaking contest which was held at the Lindley Grange last Friday evening.

By winning this contest last Friday the Addison Department continued its superiority over the other schools in the county, having won six first places and a second out of seven contests, during the past seven years.

The winning topic was, "Dairy Herd Improvement Association Work". Each member of the Agriculture, IV class is required to write and give a talk on some subject before graduation. This was the topic at the Addison Grange last week also.

By winning the county contest the Addisonite will represent Steuben County at the sectionals which will be held in Ithaca next week. Schools represented at the Lindley meeting in addition to Addison were Northside High School, Campbell, Canisteo and Avoca. Second place was won by Corning Northside which was represented by Richard Lightfoot, whose topic was entitled, "Soil Erosion Control Problems." YOUTH MUST NOT FAIL

Graduates of high schools and colleges have far different outlook staring them in the face June 1940 than for the past nine or ten years.
For since the full weight of the depression was felt early in the last decade a graduate had hardly a fifty-fifty chance for a job previous to this June.

Today economic conditions have been immeasurably changed by the fact of the great European war.
Yet, in many ways, the question of uncertainty presses down upon young people more heavily than during the days of few opportunities. Will America be led up the hard road which leads to war and all its horrors? Will universal military training be forced upon the country, compelling every young person to contribute a year of their life to building an immense war machine such as Germany and France have dedicated their national wealth to over a period of years?

Whatever may happen in the field of universal military training, or whatever may happen bringing our country into war there is little doubt that every high school graduate who earnestly wants a job will be able to get one in the next few months. The rearmament program is going fast, and with it will come a demand for skilled workers and workers who are willing to become skilled through acceptance of a job in one of the many fields of industry sure now to boom. Kid glove jobs will not drop into every one's hands, nor will every graduate find a line of employers bidding for his services, but those who honestly want to work will be able to find something to do.

For many young people, the opportunity of getting a chance to work, while a few years ago feared, has steadily assured them there would never again be enough jobs to go around in the country. Today we are on the threshold of a awakening. Tomorrow we shall open our eyes and discover there is a shortage of hands to do the jobs which are becoming available. Much of most Americans detest the methods by which Hitler built the mechanical war machine of Germany, we must open our eyes to the stark reality the Nazis could not have accomplished their purpose without long, hard hours of labor. France has come to realize, too late, that the Republic has fallen because French laborites controlled the destinies of the country and labor leaders demanded short working weeks and soft living.
Britain was unprepared to throw strong mechanical forces into the continental struggle because Chamberlain let the British people believe eas-working conditions could continue through "aj-peasement" of the dictator nations.

Will America enter this rearmament program with the mental attitude our nation can survive with soft living and little work? Or will we take home the costly lesson learned by the French?

The answer to these questions will soon come and the attitude of the young people turning their backs on school and college will have a strong effect upon those answers. Are the youth of the country ready to make sacrifices that our free democratic institutions may survive? Our generation of Americans has ever failed to meet its problems, and this generation cannot, must not, fail in this, one of the darkest hours of modern world history.

DON'T CONFUSE ISSUES

There is a small group of defeatists in this country who seem to have become persuaded to the view that opposition to totalitarianism requires totalitarian methods. They observe the success of the dictator-ridden nations in creating gigantic military machines in a brief period of time, and reason that a form of dictatorship must be exercised here if the United States is to swiftly build its armed defense to the necessary level.

Anyone who believes that has forgotten or never knew the history of this country. We have met great crises before—and we have met them as a free people. When emergency comes;
all Americans—worker, capitalist, executive, farmer—forget their differences, and join their resources in the interest of the common good.
And no dictator is needed.

That is happening in the present emergency.
Big business men and little business men have pledged themselves to do all in their power to assure the swift completion of the defense program. The great basic industries of this country—the railroads, the utilities, the steel companies, the machine makers—are prepared to do whatever is necessary to meet the exigencies of the future. They are prepared to cooperate with government to the limit, to the end that democracy may be perpetuated through democratic methods.

America has never had a dictator—and America doesn't need one now. Americans aren't robots, they must be treated like the cogs of a machine.
Americans are individuals, determined to do the best job they ever did in the interest of their country. Those who talk of a need for dictatorial powers to save democracy, of ruthless overthrow of business and industry, would destroy our traditional way of life which has proved its strength in times of greatest anger. They would destroy the very thing they profess a desire to save, namely freedom and opportunity.

WE MUST BE BIG

If we of the United States have any real interest in saving the democracies of Europe, let's imitate here and now that "we missed the boat" is too late to think and talk of what we could have done, or what we should have done. Let's open it is not too late to make safe our own shores, our industrial cities and communities, and the soil from which millions work out a living.
Plainly, we have not been over-impressive in our attitude to stay outside the war. Public men and women have been outspoken in what we should do and to what extent we should go in securing victory for the Allied cause. We, too, believe that the United States should have served in every capacity short of sending men into Europe. The opportunity, if it could have amounted to anything, has long since passed.

We must now face reality—stark reality—that the United States finds itself no better prepared than were England and France. We cannot dismiss the whole affair with the smug opinion "It won't happen to us". It can happen to us, and the only concern is "How soon?"

The industry of the United States must be coordinated and put to work. Words, argument, discussion—not to mention politics—must be simplified in terms of days or hours, not weeks or months; personal ambitions must be toward advice, not profit; action must be taken without delay against "fifth column" activities, and it should embrace employers of known agents.
When we were boys in school, it was always the big boy who shouted the orders and took none.
We will not rest until the United States takes its place as the "big boy".

WASTE! OUR NUMBER ONE ENEMY

There is growing public demand that all government expenditures be drastically reduced to legal minimum, with the sole exception of appropriations for interest on the national debt and for the great rearmament program.

The American people are today ready and willing to make any necessary sacrifices to the end that the country may be made secure against invasion. They will literally give until it hurts, and then give again. But the American people are in no mood to see their money further squandered for uneconomic, unnecessary and wasteful purposes.

The time has passed when we can afford political "luxuries". The time has come when every possible nickel must be saved for the necessities. In all probability, great cost cuts could be made so far as most governmental activities are concerned without impairing in the slightest any important work. The high patriotic duty of every official is to weigh, analyze and plan budgets for the various departments which will be models of economy. Will they do it?

The American people must demand maximum results for every dollar spent. Economic preparedness is a vital partner of military preparedness. Governmental waste from now on is one of our country's most insidious enemies, for it can be disguised in so many forms.

DRINK MORE MILK

During the month of June, practically every citizen came in touch with "Dairy Month" promotional material. For June-time was milk-time his year, and the retailers of the country worked together to stimulate consumption.

From the standpoint of national health, every month should be dairy month. Our consumption of milk, by both children and adults, is far below the levels held advisable by dietitians. In every home, milk should be a staple part of the daily diet.

So keep the slogan "drink more milk" in mind.
It is sound medical advice. And, from the economic standpoint, substantially increased consumption of dairy products would be a boon to farmers in all the states—and would create a wealth of purchasing power which would be felt in urban no less than rural areas.

TAXES LOST THROUGH SOCIALISM

Tennessee communities that have suffered millions in tax losses by kicking out highly taxed private electric companies and substituting largely tax-exempt TVA power, have been asking Congress for Federal funds to recompense them.

Why should the Federal government recompense local communities for taxes lost when they deliberately destroy their tax-paying industries?
The obvious answer is, it shouldn't—either make up such deficits by raising the rates of public power plants to pay taxes, or raise the tax rates on remaining taxable property.

ASK
The Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association, The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workers at Syracuse University will answer each week in the columns of this paper those questions considered most interesting and timely.

QUESTION. What are the creatures rank next to man in intelligence and also in parental care of offspring?

ANSWER. The anthropoid apes, probably the chimpanzee, ranks next to man in intelligence. What animal ranks next to man in parental care it is difficult to say.
Birds rank rather high in this respect among the animals. Among mammals the deer ranks high.

Peculiarly, the apes are not noted among animals so far as parental care is concerned. They pay a great deal of attention to their young and protect them but they are also known to kill their young.

QUESTION. In what part of the United States is the farm soil eroding most rapidly?

ANSWER. Probably in the southeastern United States in the Piedmont region. The United States has several million acres which have been very seriously damaged by soil erosion and over 2,000,000 acres that are estimated to be entirely useless for cultivation. Georgia and South Carolina probably have suffered the worst results from soil erosion.—Prof. Nelson Brown, forester.

QUESTION. May sugar be added to coffee without raising the level of the coffee in the cup?

ANSWER. Fill a cup with coffee, and then try to add a teaspoonful of sugar to it. Slide a glass over the coffee first to make sure that the cup is really full. Then put the glass over again without having any coffee run off the cup. It is suggested further that it is best to try this in the kitchen sink.

Strangely enough, some salts when dissolved in water give one less volume than that before the salt was added. Epsom salts and washing soda, if added in the right concentrations, will produce this strange phenomenon.

If one takes equal volumes of water and alcohol and puts the two together, he will find that the volume of the resulting liquid is less than the sum of the original liquids. On the other hand, if one takes two other liquids such as carbon disulphide and acetone and pours them together, the volume of the resulting liquid is greater than the volumes before they were combined.—Dr. Albert L. Elder, chemist.

QUESTION. Do black water or racer snakes swallow their young in time of danger? If so, are they able to disgorge them?

ANSWER. This question is based on an old myth that has had wide prevalence but it is not confirmed by any student of snakes. Naturalists are universally agreed that snakes never swallow their young in time of danger as a safety measure.

The legend doubtless arose from the fact that many snakes, can-ibal-like, feed on their own young or the young of any other snakes indiscriminately so that if their own young come around at the right time, at the psychological moment so to speak, they will eat them as food.

They are, however, never able to disgorge them. When the little snake reaches the interior of the larger snake, it is very badly entangled because the digestive enzymes of the snake's stomach are particularly active and they immediately begin to dissolve the young snake. It has no more chance than a lump of sugar would have in a cup of hot coffee.

Another fact that has seemed to give credence to this legend is the fact that the young of this particular water snake, as well as those of many others, are hatched from the eggs in the uterus of the mother and undergo considerable development before they are born. If a mother snake is killed, the young snakes are likely to be found in her body and their discovery under these circumstances has given rise to the erroneous notion that they were swallowed.—Prof. Henry N. Jones, bacteriologist.

Does the tide effect such bodies of water as the great lakes or even Cueda Lake and if so, why?

ANSWER. Technically the tide does affect such bodies of water. Practically, however, the amount of tide which would be generated in any small creek or even the Great Lakes would be measurable only by the most delicate instruments.

In 1913 a study was made of the amount of tide which is generated in water in a pipe some 500 feet long. When the moon passed over the pipe the tide produced was about two-thousandths of an inch so one may realize from this experiment that the effect of tide in a creek would not be measurable.

Theoretically, all matter—gas liquid, solid—is pulled upward toward the moon or toward the sun when these objects are in the meridian or directly over head. But practically, in the solids and in small masses of liquids the amount of displacement or movement is so slight that only the most delicate instrument can detect it.—Dr. Sidman Poole, geographer.

Dish For This Week

To please both those who like a cake foundation for their strawberries and those who prefer a biscuit base, the New York State College of Home Economics suggests two recipes for strawberry short-cake which are not only delicious but also easy to make.

Shortcake I

1/2 teaspoon of salt
1 tablespoon of sugar
1/2 cup of milk
2 cups of flour
4 teaspoons of baking powder 1/4 to 1/3 cup of butter or other shortening

Mix the dry ingredients together and sift them twice. Work in the butter or other shortening with a pastry mixer, a fork, or the fingertips. Add the milk to this mixture gradually. Bake it for about 12 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees F).

Shortcake II

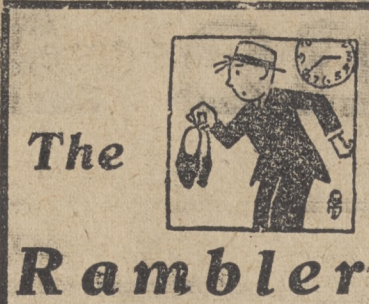

2 cups of flour
1/2 cup of sugar
4 teaspoons of baking powder
1/2 teaspoon of salt
1 egg of nutmeg
1 egg or 2 egg yolks well beaten 1/3 cup of butter or other shortening
1/3 cup of milk

Mix the dry ingredients together
and sift them twice. Work in the butter or other shortening with a
tips. Add the milk to this mix-
12 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees F).

A suggested Sunday dinner menu might be tomato juice, roast chicken, baked potatoes, buttered beans, raw spinach and onion salad, bread, strawberry shortcake, milk for the children, and coffee, tea or milk for the grownups.

Binghamton.—Walter H. White, to his having a job and family to support, he will only be confined from 6 P. M. Friday until 6 A. M.

Saturdays until the 30 days' sentence is completed.

Bath.—There will be three days of celebration here from July 4 to good times for all.

For Today

Above all, that I may not be coward. That I may have courage—courage to be unmoved by the uncertainties of life, and without dread of loss, whether of friends, or health or of fortune. That I may come with a firm and tranquil mind to the work of this day, fearing nothing—ready to meet bravely failure or deprivation.

That I may bring to the day's efforts, good humor and a cheerful regard for all with whom I may come into contact. That I may not judge others harshly or with bitterness.

That I may not be grasping, but content with a fair share of this world's goods, willing to let others have theirs. That I may be diligent in the performance of duties and cheerful in manner. That I may be earnest in pursuit of the right.
That I may stand with open mind ready to receive the Truth in small affairs and in large—whether in learning new and better methods, or in receiving that philosophy necessary to a brave, tranquil, well-balanced, well-harmonized life.

There is a Maltese cat on Main street who has the courage of his convictions. The cat has been seen chasing a dog, a horse, a tree, and the fact that he has been hanging around the corner of the street for so long that he has become a local legend.

In the death of a friend, I will forget him. He was a congenial and interesting talker, a ready storyteller, had a fine knowledge of interesting business and personal hisories of this vicinity and I spent many happy hours with him when he visited here and was looking forward to seeing him again, not relucting his statement that he would not be east again.

Several of the dignified and staid looking people on the platform commencement night could be seen keeping time with their feet when the high school orchestra was playing and I know many of them are not musicians, but feel that urge to make the feet move.

With the closing of the school year Addison loses two fine teachers in the persons of Miss Thelma Albright and Glenn L. "Joe" Sprague. Both go to advanced positions in their field with the best wishes of many local friends.
However in their going, there is a deep feeling of loss to the many who know them, but who would not wish to hold them back.

There is a little feeling in some places over the fact that not all the merchants who signed the agreement to close Wednesday afternoons are keeping that agreement.

A baseball player wanted a match to light a cigarette at the All-Star game here. Several men fumbled in pockets trying to get one when a girl on the end of the bench reached over and handed the player a match. Said she had been lighting fires in her yard. Several of the men felt rather red.

munication in which he reports frost on Goodhue Hill the morning of June 26. Says he, "The frost did not damage plants or fruits which in addition to containing acids and sugars contain colloids which lowers the freezing point."

I owe the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon an apology. In reporting the events of the commencement week I mentioned that the Rev. John V. Axtell would preach the Baccalaureate sermon, instead of the Rev. Cossaboon. And I think he got even with me by calling me down in front at that service and making me sit there all alone.

And speaking of the baccalaureate, it reminded me a lot of church everyone sitting in the back a long ways from the speaker.

Evolution
of Printing

No. 5

Europe owes a debt to the Chinese for block printing, and perhaps also for movable type. Through block books, teachings of the Good Book were brought home in easy pictorial form to people who could not read. Thus, the Bible served both as a spiritual companion and as testing material for the advancing art of printing. It seems quite clear, from available records, that as early as 1446 books and pamphlets of a religious or educational character were to be had for the asking and the price. Most of these were block books, printed from wood blocks or from engraved metal plates.

Of course, the process of cutting rude pictures and lines of text on wooden blocks which were then inked and impressed on paper was a long and laborious task. About 1440 a man living in Mainz, Germany, Johann Gutenberg, it has been reliably established—had the happy thought that letters could be separately carved or cast in reverse, arranged in proper order for the desired text, printed from, and then distributed in compartments in a tray, ready for use again.

The time, too was ripe for typographic printing. The period of the 15th century in Europe was one of intense intellectual activity, known as the Renaissance. Emerging from the stagnation of the Dark Ages, men's minds became bolder and inquiring again. Old horizons were daily pushed back by venturesome explorers, new trade routes opened up for an expanding business and commercial class.
Scholars, fleeing before the barbarous Turks who conquered Constantinople in 1453, brought the-sauruses of Greek literature with them to stimulate interest in the classics.
The social need for reading matter was present; the genius of Guttenberg was soon to satisfy that need.

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply of your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask no more questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Good For Fertilizer?

W. C. F. F., writer: "Kindly let me know if brown pine needles that have fallen from a tree can be used as fertilizer."

Professor E. L. Worthen of the agronomy department answers: "No, pine needles cannot be used economically for the production of a fertilizer. They can possibly be used as a mulch for certain acid-loving shrubs and trees, but even so they would be inferior to other organic materials."

Grow Avocado Tree?

J. L. F., writes: "I have been experimenting with an avocado seed sprout in a glass of water.
Will this bring any results?"

Professor L. H. MacDaniels of the botany department replies:
"It is possible to start young avocado trees from seeds in water. Use a container, and suspend the seed by sticking three toothpicks into the fleshy cotyledons in such a way that the seed is suspended at the mouth of the container, with about one-third of the base covered with water. Add water to keep this level, at least until rooting begins."

"Treated in this way, seeds usually send out a root in about a week and a leafy shoot a little later. The shoot can be grown for a number of weeks and then the whole plant may be potted carefully in soil. Such plants will grow rapidly with warm temperature and abundant moisture and soon become too large to be manageable in the house. They are, of course, not hardy in the north. In the tropics such plants can be set out in the open where they would eventually produce fruit."

cott Bulletin, daily paper, after 87 years of continuous publication.

and adjacent streets. It has been my experience that executives of big corporations are easy to meet and most cooperative when asked to aid communities they serve.

in the pouring rain Monday night enroute to the fair. He had a 12

Valedictorian and Salutatorian Bid Farewell and Recognize Future

AHS speakers praise community for support given class — Valedictory speaks of upset world and points way for youth.

Salutatory
"The Senior Class of 1940 has completed a twelve-year course in the Addison High School. Many of us entered this school the first year that it was opened and so we will always have fond memories of the days spent at Addison High. In the pursuit of our courses through school we have met with the utmost consideration and cooperation of the townspeople and I wish to thank each of you for your patronage this last year of our many activities held to raise money for our senior trip, the highlight in our school career. I am addition of the patronage you have shown us will remain as a shining example to us as we go out into life making better citizens of ourselves and supporting community activities in the way you have shown us."

Valedictory
"Members of the Board of Education, Faculty, Fellow Classmates and Friends:

"There are two words that can most aptly express the sentiments of the class of 1940 on this graduation night — happiness and sorrow.

"Tonight, as we sit here in our alma mater receiving the honors which you have so graciously bestowed upon us, we feel that we have reached the height of the former happiness. Yet as we recall the many friends and companions who will soon take leave we also experience the latter, sorrow.

"A few years ago, graduation from high school was considered the climax of one's mental achievement. This is no longer true but rather our diplomas tonight will serve as our passports to higher learning. There is probably no member of this class of 1940 who has a position waiting for him. This, however, does not prove to be a disappointment but rather an accepted obstacle for it seems impossible that any one of us could have lived in the last ten years of life in the greatest depression our country has ever encountered, without being aware of the grave unemployment situation which exists.

"Yet, this is not the only disturbing problem which confronts us tonight. The older generation looks to us to carry on in a period when the gods of hate and force are striving to overpower the gods of love and obedience. A period in which the mechanized forces used in their time as constructive elements, today are being used as destructive. The older generation looks for us by our efforts, courage and devotion to the finer ideals of life to aid in attaining that which they so much desire to see, peace and tranquility among nations. We as youth will do all in our power to bring about the fulfillment of that dream.

"And so while we are graduating at a time when the entire world is in a difficult situation, we have this to remember. The United States is still free and open to us, as graduates, the best opportunities for success in the finest nation in the universe.

Merchants' Errors Prove Costly— Lindley Wins

The Lindley nine put the bee on the Addison Merchants to the tune of 14 to 6 on the Lindley diamond Sunday afternoon assisted by Bill Root, who had 10 errors to his discredit for the Merchants. And they were costly behind the plate.

Thomson pitched good ball but lacked support for he allowed the winners only eight hits and held them scattered throughout the game. While the winners were scoring eight hits the losers were making nine hits but could not punch them to score heavily. Terwilliger scored two hits in three trips to the plate, both of them two-baggers. Addison batters made three double-baggers. Addison had 17 errors all together making the game a sort of "Comedy of Errors" with apologies.

The Merchants will play on their home diamond Sunday with Beaver Dams as opponents.

Cornelius Brady Dies in Arkansas

It is with a deep sense of personal loss to many people of this community that they read last week of the death of Cornelius "Con" Brady in Little Rock. He was one of the old residents of "Derby Hill" and in his youth was one of a family of active boys who were well known throughout the vicinity for fairplay.

Mr. Brady revisited the scenes of his boyhood two years ago and on a relative's memory brought out a storehouse of stories, anecdotes and reminiscences of persons, places and things of his day. In addition to renewing old acquaintances among friends in the vicinity, he made many friends among the younger generation by his ready wit, his good nature and his ability to recall many events of the past for them.

Mr. Brady started life in this vicinity, being one of the pioneer builders of gas lines in New York State. He traveled extensively throughout the state and across the continent as gas lines and companies expanded. During his time he saw many changes in methods and procedure and managed to keep abreast of whatever came in the newer, progressive methods.

The following is an account which appeared in the Little Rock paper of Mr. Brady's death.

Cornelius L. Brady, 78, died at his home, 2300 Louisiana street at 7:50 A. M., Saturday, April 27, 1940. He was one of the oldest natural gas construction operators in the country. He began his pipeline career in the 1880's when he worked with his father on the first natural gas pipe line in Pennsylvania. He followed that type of construction in many states, joining the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company more than 25 years ago. At the time of his death he was in charge of the Little Rock Town Border gas measuring station. He was a member of the Little Rock Council 812, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Agnes Brady, two sons, Frank and James Brady, both of Little Rock; two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Brady of Hot Springs and Miss Mary E. Brady of Arkansas; four brothers, Lawrence and Michael Brady of Fort Worth, Texas and Frank and James Brady of Addison.

dollars by the citizens of this community and other parts of the state of New York. Perhaps this thought has never occurred to you, but it is true this investment in your education is a debt which some day you must pay back, else our system of society will crumble into dust.

"You are coming out of school in a paradoxical hour of opportunity and distress. An hour when men are saying the freedom of Democracy is dying. The great Republic of France is today a conquered, humiliated province. Why did France fall? The French people say today they were conquered because they demanded short hours of work, while their German neighbors worked long and hard building the machines which overran France."

"You young people and we older people as well must take home this lesson. We must turn our backs upon the days of soft living, and work hard at every task which comes to hand. We must earn the right to enjoy the privileges of Democracy, including the right to a high school education. Your debt for your 12 years in school you must pay back to the next generation by providing them equal or better opportunities than you have enjoyed."

"Because you young people have the blood of freedom-loving parents and a training in citizenship I have no doubt you will shoulder the responsibilities placed upon you, and work unremittently, doing your small but important part in preserving our beloved country."

This was followed by the singing of the "Alma Mater" and the pronouncement of benediction by the Rev. John V. Axtell of the Presbyterian Church. The high school orchestra closed its active year and the program by playing "University March" of Bergh.

Two active members of the faculty, who have worked with the senior class, and program committee bade farewell to this commencement in the persons of Miss Thelma Albright, senior advisor who goes to Monticello and Glenn L. Sprague, director of music who goes to Hornell.

The class officers who served for the last time at this commencement were: President, Ruth Gladys Sherwood; vice president, Laverne Baker; secretary, Leona Jean Easton and treasurer, Gloria Angela Vona.

Graduates Must Reconstruct World J. Hillis Miller Tells Seniors

Keuka College president tells members of 1940 AHS class they must hold elements in one hand and fight to protect them with other.

Speaking to the graduates of Addison High School Tuesday evening on the subject, "Do You Care", President J. Hillis Miller of Keuka College declared that the present world situation is entirely too serious for him or any other conscientious commencement speaker to indulge in platitudes, optimistic utterances, or golden promises.

"Youth", he said, "is not afraid and they do not appreciate our hiding things from them."

"The world is in a mess", he went on to say, and this generation of students is going to be faced with the greatest repair job in history."

Dr. Miller said that he told youth in September that "the future of our world may be at stake in this struggle". At that time he said to youth: "The world is engaged in another war which threatens the very civilization you are asked to study. No one, I take, would interpret such a reference to the downfall of civilization literally."

Civilization will survive after a fashion, but many of its rich fruits will have been destroyed and new plantings will be slow growing on the ruins. Flourishing trees of a civilization have never continued to thrive when cultivated with the blood of millions of human beings. The present war, therefore, may be more nearly described in the same words used by Romain Rolland to describe the first world war when he spoke of it as "a sacrilegious conflict which shows a maddened Europe ascending its funeral pyre, and like Hercules, destroying itself with its own hands."

"It will be difficult for us this year", he had said, "to go tranquilly on our way studying the past, or even to pursue our plans of making preparations for our individual tasks and responsibilities when we shall have graduated. Your task may be that of reconstruction and this is a more difficult task than to build on new foundations and requires better training."

"Even my blackest prophecy", said the speaker, "has been put done by this cooperative suicide of war."

According to President Miller, who has spoken to hundreds of youth groups during his five years as president of Keuka College, high school graduates must learn to face a world which has previously been kind to them with great patience, courage and moral and spiritual confidence. "Our only security", he added, "is our faith in the eternal verities of life."

The speaker shared his own moral and spiritual struggles during the last ten months with his audience. "In September", he said, "I believed in neutrality with all my heart. I believed we could choose to remain free from dangerous alliances and procedures". He confessed that he could no longer believe in neutrality. "For", he said, "those nations which were most sincerely neutral have suffered the worst."

Dr. Miller said that in September he believed that we could go on about our business emphasizing education, religion, art, music, science and industry without selling out to the machines of destruction which destroy civilization. That he said is now impossible for "we must continue to hold the elements of our culture in one hand while we protect them militantly with the other."

"In September," continued the speaker, "I believed in reasonable pacifism. Today the pacifist is in the worst position he has ever been in the world's history, for the pacifist must be ready to give up even the right to be a pacifist."

"Do you care," concluded the speaker, "that these things have happened to your world? If you do," he said, "you will find ways of making your contribution to the dream of peace and high service."

Fancy Ice Cubes

The convenience of all-metal ice trays makes the freezing of all kinds of plain and fancy ice cubes a distinct pleasure.

Beside the usual cubes made from plain water—lemon juice, lemonade, grape juice, in fact any fruit juice or pure fruit flavoring desired can be frozen quickly in the ice trays. These tasty cubes make nice additions to fruit drinks... and the children will enjoy them just as they do their regular frozen confections.

If you have a favorite recipe—please send it along. Contributions to this department will be welcomed.

MELLOWING IMPROVES DESSERTS—

All desserts, regardless of kind or the time required for freezing, are much improved in flavor and texture by allowing them to mellow. This is accomplished by allowing the dessert to remain in the freezing compartment for some time before it is served, at a higher temperature than that at which it is frozen. This temperature is obtained by setting the cold control at an intermediate position.

DESSERT USES STRAWBERRIES

For that very special summer-time "home strawberry festival", sprig a little and produce an amazing dessert. Fill a fancy baked pie shell with smooth strawberry ice cream. Then spread over the ice cream a coating of slightly sweetened whipped cream colored with a little strawberry juice. Garnish the whipped cream with perfect whole strawberries. To serve, slice as you would an ordinary pie.

FRESH STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

1 qt. strawberries
1 pt. plain boiled custard ½ cup sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 pt. cream

Wash and hull berries, chop and sprinkle with sugar. Cover and let stand two hours in a warm place. Mash and strain, add lemon juice. Mix custard, berries and cream. If freezing in mechanical refrigerator, whip cream before combining with other ingredients. If using hand freezer, use eight parts shaved ice to one part coarse salt and turn freezer slowly. Drain off water and repack with four parts ice to one part salt. Allow to stand 30 minutes to two hours before serving.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

(Serves 8)
3 2-oz. packages cream cheese 1/3 cup lemon mayonnaise

1 cup whipping cream
Mix cheese, mayonnaise and lemon juice until smooth. Cut fruit, ginger and nuts into smaller pieces and add to cheese mixture. Fold in the whipped cream. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator. Freeze 2 or 3 hours, or until firm. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with lemon mayonnaise.

LEMON MAYONNAISE

1 egg or 2 yolks
¼ cup cold water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 tsp. mustard
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
Dash of paprika or pepper 2 cups salad oil

ORANGE BRAN MUFFINS

½ cup sugar
1 egg ½ cup all bran cereal
1 tsp. grated orange peel ½ cup orange juice

½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. soda

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat until creamy. Stir in cereal, orange peel, orange juice and milk. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

ORANGE CHIFFON PIE

¼ cup cold water
¼ cup cold water
1 tsp. gelatin
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange peel
2 tbsps. lemon juice

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Mix sugar, beaten egg yolks, salt and orange juice in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water and cook until thickened, 10 to 15 minutes. Add softened gelatin and grated orange peel to hot mixture. Stir and cool. Add lemon juice. When mixture begins to thicken fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into prepared shell of orange pastry. Crumb shell made of a cereal, wafers or crackers. Chill in refrigerator until firm enough to cut. Serve with or without whipped cream.

TAPIOCA CREAM PLEASES GUESTS

Tapioca Cream:
1 or 2 egg yolks
4 cups milk
1/3 cup quick tapioca
½ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
1 or 2 egg whites
1 tsp. flavoring

Double boiler method of making: Mix egg yolk with small amount of milk in top of double boiler. Add tapioca, sugar, salt and remaining milk. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 10 to 12 minutes.

after water boils again, stirring frequently. Remove from fire (Tapioca will be well distributed throughout, but mixture will be thin. Do not overcook.) Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold shape. Fold hot tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Cool—mixture thickens as it cools. When slightly cool, stir in flavoring. Chill. Serve with chocolate sauce.

CABBAGE SALAD EASY TO MAKE

This type of menu is not only easy, but it actually fills the bill for a regular meal despite the fact that mother has been away all afternoon.

Cabbage and Apple Salad

1 pint hot water
4 tps. vinegar
½ tsp. salt
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup diced apples
¼ cup chopped sweet pickles

SPORTS GOSSIP

Steuben County Baseball officials and players should take an All-Star game more seriously if they expect the fans to take the game seriously and support the game. Saturday's game at Addison proved a "dud" as far as fans who like baseball are concerned.

Giant fans are still squeezing for their favorite in spite of the fact that the New York's in the National League are running into tough luck.

Between the Yankees in the American League and the Giants in the National League, the middle berths in the leagues are held, for the Giants are third and Yankees fourth in their respective leagues as this is written. Not a particularly favorite spot for either team as the mid season approaches.

American Kennel Club judges may have to prove their fitness to be judges if plans now in formation are carried out. In the past judges have usually picked the well known breeds and the lesser breeds have been ignored. So, standards of fitness are to be set up and judges will have to take written examinations on general dog knowledge. This seems fair for the lesser known dogs in AKC sponsored shows.

The revolt against Manager Oscar Vitt by the Cincinnati players is now in the armistice stage. The 12 players who approached Manager Bradley to have Vitt ousted, retracted their ouster proceedings last week and the club started winning. Some fans in Cincinnati are wondering if the armistice will end when the team starts losing. It is believed that by bringing the tension into the open, it has eased the feelings of players and manager.

Joe Louis' 11th championship fight in three years gives him a record of having defended his title more times than any other champion. And the decisive manner in which he put Arturo Godoy away last Thursday almost convinces some of the old timers that he is the greatest fighter ever to hold the championship.

Dorothy Kaufman, 10 year old McGrew, Nebraska track star caught a rabbit after a two mile chase and the animal was exhausted. So the saying, "as fast as a rabbit" means nothing to her.

Cole Endorsed By Chemung GOP

Elmhurst, June 26—W. Sterling Cole of Bath, representative from the 37th Congressional District, has been designated for re-election by the Chemung County Republican Committee. With 144 of 146 members attending the conference Mr. Cole was given unanimous endorsement by secret ballot. Because of his outstanding work as a Congressman no other candidate was considered by any member of the organization. County Chairman Charles W. Perry, in commenting on the designation, said: "This is an unusual tribute to Congressman Cole. Under our system of making designations no one knows for whom any member of the county committee votes and for the Bath man to receive every ballot cast is not only unusual but an outstanding recognition of the duties he has performed as the people's representative in Washington. It was also unusual for all but two members of the county committee to be present for such a conference."

The same day that Mr. Cole was advised of the action of the Chemung County Republican Committee the following high tribute was paid him by Carl Vinson, representative from Georgia, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee and who has served on that committee for 25 years.

"Dear Sterling: With a recess of the House in the offing I want to take this opportunity of expressing to you my sincere appreciation for the invaluable and outstanding services you have rendered me in connection with all naval matters and particularly in connection with the preparedness program."

"Naturally I have had the privilege of close observance of your ability, diligence, influence and power as a Representative of your District. You have been in a position where you could do much toward strengthening the national defense and your colleagues in the House and on the Naval Affairs Committee have great respect and admiration for the type of aggressive and intelligent work you have done"—signed, "Carl Vinson".

Bill Redin, Seattle, Washington, was surprised last week when he was informed that he is National Ski Champion. He won the event last winter but some mixup in time races gave the award to Walter Prager of Dartmouth.

Wellsboro—This community put on a gala show last Friday at the annual Laurel Festival. The cream of femininity from several surrounding communities competed for Laurel Queen honors.

4-H Potato and garden members and leaders will gather at the Avoca Grange Hall on Monday, July 1 at 10:30 D. S. T.

Insects and diseases of potatoes and vegetables with methods of recognizing and controlling them will be discussed and demonstrated thoroughly at this meeting by some of the foremost authorities of the state. Dr. R. W. Leiby, insect specialist, Dr. M. F. Barrus, plant disease specialist and Dr. A. J. Pratt, crops specialist, all from the College of Agriculture at Cornell, will present the work.

All the care and attention possible given to potato and garden projects will do but little good if club members are not able to protect their crop from the heavy damage likely to be done by insects and diseases. Because of this, all garden and potato members and all men leaders are urged to be present.

The meeting will be held, rain or shine.

OLD-FASHIONED BANKING

While certain conditions are changing, fundamentals of economics do not change. Changing conditions might justify a deviation in their application, but the fundamentals remain the same. From our viewpoint, all of these principles may be summed up in the one term

"quality"

The old-fashioned bank sticks only to loans of the highest quality and buys bonds of only the highest quality for its investment portfolio. It employs only the highest type of personnel. This unswerving course, involving the best in everything, inevitably leads to the highest type and best possible banking.
